Deadline for Wheat Displaced Allotments

May 1 of this year is an important deadline for certain owners of wheat farms which have been acquired by an agency having the right of eminent domain, according to W .D. Hix, III, chairman, Appomattox Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The May 1 deadline applies to those owners who were so displaced from wheat - allotment farms during the period January 1, 1954, to August 28, 1958.

The chairman explains that such an owner may file a notice of his displacement and a request that the allotment be pooled and used to the extent necessary to establish an "equitable" allotment for other land owned or purchased by him.

Tenants on such land are not eligible to file such requests and in order that the transferred wheat allotment may be effective for the 1960 wheat crop on the other farm, however, the owner must file the required notices in the local ASC County Office not later than May 1, 1959.

Flower Show Dates Chosen

May Day Sales will be the theme of the Appomattox Garden Club Spring Flower Show, which will be held Friday and Saturday, May 15 and 16. Arrangements have been made with the Appomattox Main Street merchants to stage the show in the stores and business places. One class will be held in each of the stores participating, and the arrangements will be made using articles of merchandise in each store.

In conjunction with the Garden Club Show, the merchants in town are planning a "May Day Sales" advertising program for those two days, with the stores being open at night. A parade will be staged Friday afternoon by merchants, clubs and businesses.

The Garden Club and merchants are enthusiastic over this program and more plans will be added for a "Big Two Days in Appomattox."

Decision in May On Road Issue

The State Highway Department has announced that a report by consulting engineers recommending the location for Interstate Route 64 between Richmond and Clifton Forge is not expected until late May.

A spokesman for the Department said the delay in the report, which was due late this month, was granted to give consultants sufficient opportunity to review written estimates presented within the past few weeks by proponents for north and south locations for the interstate highway.

Originally, rebuttal statements were to have been made at a public hearing held in Richmond on March 12. However, because of the length of the hearing, which attracted several thousand people, proponents for each route agreed to furnish written rebuttals.

The rebuttal by counsel for proponents of the southern route along highways 360, 460 and 220 through the Lynchburg and Roanoke areas was received by the Commission on April 1. Final arguments by proponents of the location along U. S. 250 through Charlottesville, Waynesboro and Staunton, were filed on April 10.

A decision on the location of the highway probably will be made by the Highway Commission sometime during June, the Department spokesman said. Engineers said they do not expect the report to be ready when the Commission meets on May 21 and 22 in Roanoke and Richmond, respectively, to hold public hearings on tentative allocations for interstate and primary highway construction for the 12 months beginning July 1.

Any change in the location of the route, which was originally designated along the 250 corridor, would require approval by both the U .S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Department of Defense. Consideration of the southern corridor was requested by residents of Roanoke and Lynchburg and other areas along the proposed route.

As a result of this request, the Highway Commission had its engineers make a comparative study of the merits of both routes. This report, which made no recommendations, was the basis for the public hearing held by the Commission in March. Prior to the hearing, the Commission announced that the firm of Edwards and Kelcey, New York consulting engineers, had been retained to study all available information and routes and recommend a location for the highway.

WOMAN'S CLUB PLANS COVERED DISH DINNER

The Woman's Club of Appomattox will have a covered dish dinner meeting at the Elementary School Cafeteria on Monday night, May 4, at 6:30 o'clock. Members may bring other interested ladies as their guests. Mrs. Reed, of Baldwin's Millinery Store, Lynchburg, will present a program. Members of the Woman's Club will model hats.

Annual Spring Clean-Up Weeks for the Town are scheduled for May 2-15. This campaign is being sponsored by the Appomattox Garden Club and the Town Council and Town Employees are cooperating by offering to haul away any accumulated rubbish, if any individual will notify the Town Manager's office. The usual collection of trash will be made, but will be supplemented during these two weeks.

This is a time for individual home owners and business places to take inventory to see if civic sloppiness gives visitors the wrong impression of the town. Thousands of summer-time visitors pass through Appomattox driving to vacation spots, and for sight-seeing. If there are unsightly refuse dumps, junkyards, cluttered trash on vacant lots, etc., on any of the streets and main highways leading into town, it would require only a little effort to clean up or screen such places from the view of the public.

Listed below are a few ways in which Appomattox can benefit from a Clean-Up Campaign:

First: A clean, attractive town pays in dollars and cents. Painting, painting and improving the appearance of homes and business places and lots adds to the value of the property and to the pleasure and satisfaction of the owner.

Second: A clean and attractive town is a potent factor in adding to the payrolls of its citizens, and encourages progressive enterprises.

Third: It stimulates interest in home ownership.

Fourth: Fire prevention. Cluttered trash both inside and outside may be a fire hazard.

Fifth: A spirit of cooperation and willingness to pull together from each family, schools, civic organizations and all will contribute much to the development of a cleaner and healthier community.

ADVISE STORAGE FOR GRAIN CROPS

Farmers should relize that having plenty of storage on their farms pays off in more ways than one, W. D. Hix, III, chairman, Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

He called attention to the fact that loans may be obtained from the Commodity Credit Corporation through the county ASC Committee for construction of facilities for grain and peanut storage on the farm. Storage facility loans may be obtained in an amount up to 80 per cent of the cost of a new storage structure at four per cent interest. The loans are for four years and repayable in annual installment.

Pointing out the advantages of on-the-farm storage as an important supplement to warehouse storage, the chairman reminded farmers that they cannot obtain a price support loan on their crops unless they have a place to store it, (2) holding all or part of their crops on the farm provided orderly marketing and may result in a better price in the market place, and (3) storing grains — particularly feed grains — on the farm means greater convenience for the farmer since the grain is then on hand when needed.

Details concerning this program may be obtained at the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Office.
